I like to think about the 4th of July, Independence Day, as a day to celebrate Independence of Spirit and the power of love. I love this country, especially the Constitution and the Bill of Rights because these protect our freedoms. I feel that we have been aggressively manipulated to give up our freedoms, and for the sake of human survival, we need to change our mindset, and rediscover the power of love.

How do we do that?

Here’s the problem as I see it...Many people are metaphorically sitting in a tiny little box of reality concepts without realizing it. This is because almost every one of us has been programmed to think in one of a variety of accepted ways since early childhood.

Through regular exposure to television, network news, movies, music and other people who have been programmed before us, we’ve been programmed. Through this programming, we have been manipulated into certain thinking patterns that do not make sense. That is the reason we still have war.

War does not make sense. When you think about current popular slogans like “fight for peace” you will notice that the words are mutually contradictory and illogical. This is typical of the absurd thinking patterns we have been programmed with.

You cannot effectively fight for peace. It doesn’t work. As soon as you fight for peace, you have war. Yes, I know that if you are attacked in your home, you need to protect yourself. That makes sense. But that is not what the powers that be have asked us to believe. They have asked us to believe that the way to protect our liberty is to give up our freedom, and the way to share democracy with other countries is to rob them of sovereignty.

The truth is, the only way you can have peace is to peace for peace.

Martin Luther King, Jr., Mohandas Gandhi, and John Lennon, have given us examples we can follow. Each of them proved that using peaceful methods of promoting peace is powerful and actually works.

Each were leaders who thought outside the box. They thought for themselves, and through their willingness to actually think, they saw through the agenda, and made logical conclusions, conclusions like: if you don’t want prejudice and tyranny to prevail...don’t go along with it. Stand for what you believe even though it may be inconvenient.

This is far better than just going along with something you don’t believe in, because when people do that, they are supporting the very thing they do not believe in. On the other hand, when you do not cooperate with unreasonable and illogical behavior, and stand for what you truly believe in instead, you support what you actually believe in and become part of the solution.

Remember, you are powerful and you can make a difference. The father of modern psychology, William James said, "Act as if what you do makes a difference. It does."

I find these words inspiring and true. When you begin to realize this by acting on what you truly believe rather than going along with the manipulated program, you will find out how powerful you really are. And when you practice getting outside the box and thinking for yourself, you find yourself feeling free, and expressing that freedom in the moment rather than waiting for some future date. In fact, it's fun.

You can change your mindset and your way of being. It doesn't matter how long you have been feeling stuck and powerless in the past, you can turn your life around and express love and power now.

To accomplish this in a spiritual counseling session, I like to help people revisit old beliefs, and change the beliefs that do not serve them. Through looking into the past and helping them to deal with memories differently and more effectively than before, they learn to "Do all the good

you can,
in all the ways
you can,
to all the souls
you can,
in every place
you can,
at all the times
you can,
with all the zeal
you can,
as long as ever
you can"
John Wesley

think clearly. This allows them to find and express their innate potential of power through love. This change can happen very quickly.

As William James said, "To change your life: start immediately; do it flamboyantly; no exceptions"

"Do all the good you can, in all the ways you can, to all the souls you can, in every place you can, at all the times you can, with all the zeal you can, as long as ever you can" John Wesley
